

A drama script on Bullying
(Class 3G)

Plot:

A disabled boy is constantly victimized by two bullies who make fun of him every single day because of his disability (the victim can't see well) and because he likes studying and is the teachers' favourite.

One day, while walking in the school corridors with his books in his hands, he stumbles and falls down, on the floor. Even on this occasion the bullies mistreat him, but this time he gets some help from two girls, who intervene to protect him.

Setting:

Inside a middle school, corridors of the school

Characters and cast:

Disabled boy/victim

Bully 1

Bully 2

Girl 1

Girl 2

(Narrative voice)

Scene description: [One day, while he is walking in the corridors with books in his hands he stumbles and falls to the ground. The boy loses his eyeglasses. Two bullies move toward him.

One of the bullies picks up the eyeglasses from the ground and puts them on.]

Bully 1:

"With these eyeglasses it's impossible to see anything, we'd better throw them away" [he throws the boy's glasses into the bin] "Everything you wear sucks like you."

(The second bully takes one of the boy's books and she begins to tear off the pages)

Bully 2: "You always study. But it is not enough for you to be the center of teacher's attention, because it is useless if you have no friends. You're alone and no one will ever want to be yours."

Victim: "Please stop! Don't say these ugly words to me and don't destroy my books! Please!"

Bullies (evil laughing): "Ha ha ha, you're pathetic!"

[The two girls arrive and stand in front of the victim yelling to the bullies]

Girls: "Stop!"

Girl 1: "Stop blaming the weakest. He hasn't done anything wrong. You are just jealous of his schoolskills. He might not see well with his eyes, but you have a blind heart."

Girl 2: "You make fun of him every single day. Aren't you tired? Try to put yourself in his shoes. How would you feel? Very bad, I suppose. So before you open your mouth, you must think! Bullies aren't strong, they are cowards."

Narrative voice: "After the speech, the victim thanks the two girls. The bullies listened to the whole speech without saying anything. At the end of the speech, without any further reflection, they went away. But from that day on, they've never made fun of anyone again."
